Clear and present danger.

The greatest threat to humanity today is not, in my opinion, nuclear war. Nor is it a pandemic or climate change. Today, the greatest threat to humanity, in my opinion, (humble or otherwise) is a mass psychosis, such as we witnessed in 2020, and which is still in evidence today. This particular mass psychosis has already killed millions, and billions of lives hang in the balance.

What is a mass psychosis, and what causes such a thing to occur?
In “normal” times, only a small percentage of the population suffer from psychosis, and these various psychoses tend to be specific to individuals. That is to say, the various psychotic individuals do not all experience the same psychosis. For instance, a methamphetamine addict might suffer from a psychosis that causes him to believe that he has bugs under his skin. A pilgrim visiting Jerusalem might suffer from a psychosis which causes him to believe that he is Jesus. A politician might have a psychosis which causes him to suffer from delusions of grandeur. Under certain conditions, however, a particular psychosis can become contagious and spread rapidly through the population. The two main prerequisites for a mass psychosis to occur are fear, and a belief in external authority. Fear combined with a belief in external authority is a deadly mix which killed hundreds of millions in the 20th century alone, and in the 21st century, threatens to kill billions more. Today, in addition to a fearful populace and a widespread belief in external authority, we have a high speed mass communication system such as (so far as I know) the world has never before seen. We also have a highly educated cadre of psychologists, sociologists, and social engineers, who have studied human psychology all of their adult lives, and are able to draw on the knowledge of those who went before them. This intimate, and growing, knowledge of human psychology has allowed these people to identify weaknesses in the human psyche which can be exploited.

One of the founders of modern psychological manipulation was a man named Ivy Lee, known as “Poison Ivy” who worked for the Rockefellers, putting out propaganda for them and generally promoting their interests. Another was a man named Edward Louis Bernays, the nephew of Sigmund Freud. Bernays, in his obituary, was referred to as “the father of public relations.” One of his best known books was titled “Propaganda.” During World War I, Bernays worked for the “Committee on Public Information” (an independent agency of the U.S government) conducting what he referred to as “psychological warfare.” After the war, he did public relations for various companies, government agencies, and non profits.

So we have a fearful populace, a widespread belief in external authority, a high speed mass communication system, a highly trained cadre of psychologists, sociologists, and social engineers, and one more thing: a number of wealthy eugenicists, Satanists, and psychopaths. For instance, Bill Gates is the son of a eugenicist, and he himself has publicly expressed his desire to reduce the population. Additionally, in videotaped interviews, “duping delight” is an emotion that is often visible on his face. Duping delight is commonly expressed by psychopaths. Bill Gates, however, doesn’t work alone: he works with many others whose interests intersect with his own. Another dangerous individual is a man named Klaus Schwab, the founder of the World Economic Forum. Klaus Schwab is the quintessential evil super villain, complete with a German accent and a NAZI background. The father of Klaus Schwab, Eugen Wilhelm Schwab, was the managing director at Escher Wyss AG in Ravensburg, Germany, prior to, and during, World War II. Escher Wyss AG manufactured equipment for the German war effort, including equipment for Nazi Germany’s nuclear weapons program. Under the directorship of Eugen Wilhelm Schwab, Escher Wyss AG received the National Socialist Model

Company award. It has also been alleged that under the directorship of Eugen Wilhelm Schwab, Escher Wyss AG, used slave labor.

Years later, Klaus Schwab himself helped the government of South Africa build atomic bombs. Today, Klaus Schwab devotes himself to rasing up the Fourth Reich, a dystopian society which he hopes to bring about in the near future, modeled as much on modern day China as on the Third Reich. Through his “Young Global Leaders” program,(and its predecessor, the Global Leaders for Tomorrow” program) he has penetrated the highest levels of government throughout the world. He has said that he is proud of penetrating the cabinets (of governments.) He counts among the alumni of his programs: Justin Trudeau, Gavin Newsom, Bill Gates, Jeff Bezos, Mark Zuckerberg, Tony Blair, Gordon Brown, Angela Merkel, Jacinda Ardern, and Emanuel Macron, along with many others. Klaus Schwab even claims Vladimir Putin. Of all of the graduates of his programs, Klaus Schwab is perhaps most proud of Justin Trudeau, the man who reduced Canada to a third world dictatorship. If Justin Trudeau is his right hand man, then Noah Yuval Harari is his left hand man. Noah Yuval Harari is a history professor at the University of Jerusalem, in Israel. Klaus Schwab is said to refer to Mr. Harari as “The Prophet.” This so called prophet appears to be at war with God and man.

To recap, we have a fearful populace, a widespread belief in external authority, a cadre of skilled propagandists, and those with the means and motive to hire them to bring about a mass psychosis – the proverbial perfect storm. We have identified the problem, now it is time for the solution: The solution is straightforward, but not necessarily easy. The solution is to be honest (with ourselves) courageous, patient, and to take a stand for what is right. It would certainly be nice if everyone would do this, but it is not necessary. If a relatively small number of people stand up, it will be enough to turn the tide; the mass psychosis will ebb, and sanity will be restored.

Note: It is up to you to do your own research; if you take my word for these things, or if you reject what I wrote without looking into the matter, you are lazy and irresponsible, and perhaps cowardly as well.
